Ceremony Music

Essentially after a classy sound that people eventually recognize as a "oh, hey, I know what song this is--oh, this is fun." We want the songs to be up-beat and cheerful; generally liked across age groups.

Special Instructions: 8:25pm is an estimate. We'd like the first dance announced shortly after everyone is downstairs (with just a few extra minutes for people to grab some cake maybe). So this will be the first song of the night. Please play the whole song. We are merging our first dance with our father/daughter and mother/son dances. We will dance together for the first verse and chorus, and with our respective parent for the second verse through the end. Instead of announcing parents to join, b&g will just hold out hands for respective parents to join.

Additional Information: As a couple that currently lives in California, we are very excited for that song--"California"-- to hit. Your call when the best timing is, but we will lose our minds and hope our guests will too. Please have Piano Man be your last piano song of the night. Probably lame from your perspective but the bride's sisters will be thrilled!

There will be a broad range of ages there, from 5 to 85, so early stuff should be appealing across age groups, and slowly move more and more towards our age group as the night goes on.
